Print Solutions

Print production capabilities

From one-colour business cards to multi-colour brochures and annual reports, Wickliffe has the resource network, the machinery, the bindery and in-house finishing services to deliver the complete printing job. Our quality capabilities include:

■ Web and flat-sheet full colour printing

Wickliffe can design and print material to promote your organisation's products and services. Examples include business stationery, catalogues, brochures, personalised promotional mailers, integrated card documents, point-of-sale material and any other marketing material involving full colour printing.

■ Digital printing

Digital printing is quick and cost effective. It means high quality colour printing with low set-up costs, less waste, greater flexibility in size, fast turnaround, very low runs and the flexibility to reconfigure an otherwise standard document. This makes Wickliffe's digital printing services ideal for:

- documents that are always changing, such as price lists, parts lists, training manuals and catalogues
- company newsletters using a pre-printed shell. Copy your weekly or monthly newsletter onto a disk and Wickliffe will print it on the standard stock
- short-run economical publishing of books, magazines and technical brochures
- large colour posters and banners of the highest colour quality produced economically in very short runs.

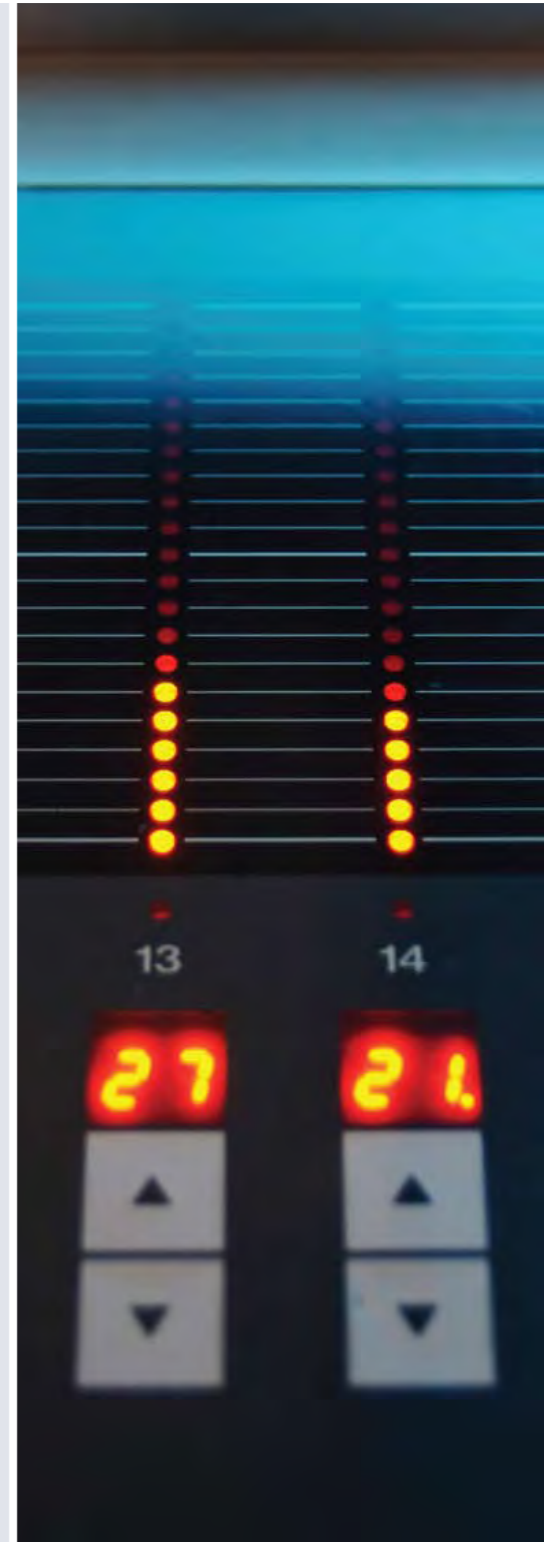

■ Business Form Printing

From tax invoices to statements, cheques to pay advice slips, and everything else in between, we are the most experienced business forms printer in New Zealand.

Whatever your need, Wickliffe can help with a complete service – including specialised design – to match your forms to your output, to rationalise and integrate them across your business, and to ensure a quality and recognisable 'look and feel' consistent with your corporate design standards.

■ Expert outsourcing

Our printing plants are equipped to meet most of your print requirements, but our experienced strategic sourcing team can also deal with a panel of approved suppliers for any print project that needs to be outsourced.

A complete print solution from one supplier

Wickliffe knows that each customer has unique printing requirements. We make sure we have an in-depth understanding of your business, and then develop the printing solution that best meets your needs. In addition our in-house design and pre-press facilities can provide you with a full design-to-delivery service.

Wickliffe has been providing printing and related services to its New Zealand and international clients for 60 years. In that time it has achieved an international and award-winning reputation for its quality and continuous innovation. As a commercial print specialist, Wickliffe's client base includes many major companies in the financial services sector, multinationals from the oil industry, large-scale manufacturers and some of New Zealand's largest government departments.
